Celebrate Woodstock-era with Mike Frankel at Four Corners Framed Art, to Release Images from Personal Archive

June 29, 2021 Music culture & history, Music news, Rock musicbook, Jefferson Airplane, Jefferson Starship, Mike Frankel, photographer, Woodstock Join us at Four Corners Framed Art, Friday October 15, 3rd Friday Art Walk.

During the late 1960s, Mike Frankel was one of the most sought-after photographers for musicians of the era, his photographic style capturing the cultural essence of the decade. Images from Frankel's extensive archive are set to be released to the public for the first time.

Frankel worked closely with bands like Eric Clapton, Jethro Tull, Pink Floyd, The Grateful Dead, Alice Cooper, Joe Cocker, Frank Zappa, David Bowie, and many others. Most notably, Frankel was also the personal photographer for Jefferson Airplane. In addition, he worked with Bill Graham at the Fillmore East, photographing some of the most iconic images from the rock's golden age as well as capturing iconic images from Woodstock.

Photographer, Jim Marshall, who, like Frankel, enjoyed extensive access to many musicians throughout the 1960s said of Frankel: "Mike was the photographer that brought art to our profession."

A book of Frankel's images is set for publication towards the end of the year. An additional volume showcasing his Beatles photos is also in the planning stages.

Four Corners Framed Art in Independence, Missouri, USA is hosting an in-person meet and greet with the legendary photographer Mike Frankel on Friday, 22nd October from 5 pm to 9 pm. The event is free, open to the public, and will be held in conjunction with the Englewood Arts District's third Friday art walk.

"This is truly a rare opportunity to meet a living legend," said Joseph Crownover, Owner/Gallery Director of Four Corners Framed Art. "This will be only the third time Mike Frankel's work has ever been shown or made available to the public since the photos were taken over 50 years ago."

Come and experience GHOSTS IN THE GALLERY, a night of ghost stories just in time for Hallowe'en. We cordially invite you to The Gallery where your hosts will regale you with tales of the area's ghosts and the supernatural happenings.

And do you have your own ghost story? Then share it with us! Tell us about your own experience with a haunting, psychic happening, supernatural encounter or other unexplained event. You will be among seasoned ghost investigators who will answer your questions about the latest ghost hunting gadgets and tell you how to conduct your own investigation into a haunting.

The Gallery itself is actively haunted. The building has been an active location in the Englewood Station community since the late 1940s. So be prepared to be joined by any number of spirits that reside there.

And as if that wasn't enough, on this night only, along with the dark art, oddities and curiosities that are regularly offered at the gallery, we will also be displaying a number of "cursed" and haunted items from our private collections.

Tickets are $10, with all proceeds going to support the gallery.

Please understand that this event will not be suitable for young children! No one under the age of 18 will be admitted unless otherwise arranged with the gallery prior to the event.

New Businesses in the Englewood Arts District

What Is Mine Can Be Yours is one of the newest businesses to locate in the Englewood Arts District. They are opening in their second location, with an art studio and small retail boutique located in the lower level of Englewood Row Gallery and Art Space at 10922 E Winner Rd., Entrance on the side of the building on Harris. Angel and her son have always had a deep love for Kansas City sports and a desire to be creative. They realized their hobbies could lend themselves to amazing opportunities for a young man transitioning into adulthood with autism to get out in the community, be social, learn life skills, and to create a purposeful daily routine for success.

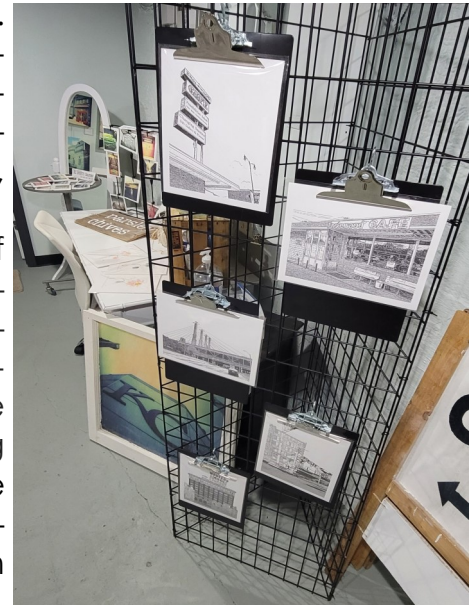

At first, they mostly created handmade sports art for friends and family. Their creativity grew into making upcycled art, handcrafted items, and hunting for vintage treasures. Soon they became a vendor at a handful of local boutiques around the metro! Being creative, learning about upcycling/repurposing, and going to estate sales to search for vintage items became a successful individualized "Day Program" for this young autistic man. Landing in the historic Kansas City West Bottoms at Ugly Glass and Company several years ago, they had the opportunity to enhance aspects of the "Day Program" where their hobby has prospered. They still have their charming vendor location filled with photography, art, handcrafted items, refinished furniture, and antique collectibles in the lower level of Ugly Glass and Company in the historic West Bottoms at 1285 Hickory St, Kansas City, MO 64102.

What Is Mine Can Be Yours has evolved into a collaboration of people from all over the world with an array of different backgrounds. They enjoy being creative and have an appreciation for art and the artistic process. From Middle Aged to under 10, we have many contributors to our art and boutique collections. They are eager to learn more about everything and share it with people interested in what they do. They are proud to not only be a skill building opportunity for this amazing young man, but to also be a small, local business in both Kansas City and Independence.

In their new art studio they produce local art & handmade items, refinish furniture, and collect/sell an array of antique collectibles. Also have a great source for interactive fun, creative workshops, and activities, classes, events, "Canvases & Cocktails" Workshops, Birthday parties, creative space rentals, which are all offered at their new location in the Englewood Arts District, see their facebook page or go on their web site at
